Source brief · Historical report summary

Source: PROGRESS REPORT HRPF 2023.pdf, Improvement in the Health Sector and Access to Vaccination

About the project

Childhood vaccination depends on families being able to access functioning public health services. HRPF's 2022–2023 performance report describes difficulties accessing vaccination in Mandi Bahauddin district because of administrative issues at Basic Health Units and District Health Units.

HRPF visited the facilities and brought the issue to the Director General of Health Punjab. The report records a prompt response to improve the situation in the public interest.

The challenge

Administrative issues at Basic Health Units and District Health Units were making childhood vaccination difficult to access. The report describes a public-service access problem requiring attention from health authorities.

It does not identify the number of affected children, the facilities visited or a precise intervention date.

Our approach

HRPF visited health facilities to understand the access difficulties and informed the Director General of Health Punjab. This approach linked observations at local facilities with the authority responsible for addressing the administrative concerns.

The report records action by the Director General to improve the situation. HRPF also recognised that response by presenting an honorary shield.

Objectives

Seek action on administrative problems affecting public health services.

Support children's access to vaccination through institutional engagement.

Evidence and scope

The Director General of Health Punjab is the authority named in the report. Basic Health Units and District Health Units were the facilities visited. The source does not establish a formal delivery partnership or a vaccination programme operated by HRPF.

This intervention concerns advocacy for vaccination access. It does not claim that HRPF administered vaccines, reached a stated number of children or achieved a measured vaccination-coverage increase. Those figures are not supplied in the source.
